

Rohit R. Arora, MD, FACC

Dr. Rohit R. Arora is currently, a Professor of Medicine and Professor of Pharmacology at the Chicago Medical School, where he is also Chief of Cardiology and Vice Chairman of Medicine at the North Chicago VA Medical Center. Prior to this he was Clinical Professor of Medicine, Division of Cardiovascular Diseases and Hypertension at UMDNJ-RWJMS.

Dr. Arora has a long standing interest in vascular biology and particularly vascular disease in South Asian Americans. His field of research includes vascular biology, risk prevention, and clotting.