

Satish C. Mullick, DMD, MSD

Satish C. Mullick obtained his first dental degree in 1960 in India. He did a fellowship of 18 months duration at The Royal School of Dentistry, in Stockholm, Sweden. He received specialty training, and a degree in Prosthodontics at The Indiana University School of Dentistry, Indianapolis, Indiana (1963 – 1967). Dr. Mullick taught at the Temple University School of Dentistry (1967 – 1969). He went into private practice of dentistry with Dr. M. L. Soni, Dentist to the President of India, New Delhi, India, from 1970 to 1973. Dr. Mullick has been teaching at the UMDNJ-New Jersey Dental School since July 1, 1974. He is presently a professor with tenure in the Department of Restorative Dentistry. Dr. Mullick is a member of several dental and specialty organizations and holds Fellowships in the American and the International College of Dentists.